StemPunt – Online panel

What is StemPunt panel?

StemPunt panel is Motivaction's online research panel and consists of over 70,000 active Dutch members (reference date: January 2023). Our panel was founded in 2002 and is ISO 20252:2019 certified.

How can you use StemPunt panel?

Organisations can use StemPunt for conducting research within the Dutch population. This panel can generate representative samples of 1,000 Dutch citizens at short notice, if needs be even within 24 hours. In need of a larger sample size? We are also able to realise samples of up to 20,000 participants within a few weeks.

Furthermore, we are able to reach specific research target groups based on a wide variety of background characteristics. Examples include healthcare employees, owners of e-bikes, or youngsters. Our panel is also enriched with Mentality™, the unique value and lifestyle research model developed by Motivaction.

In addition to traditional quantitative research, you can also use StemPunt panel for:

- Testing new TV programmes
- Implicit association tests
- In-home product testing (IHUT)

StemPunt – Online panel

How do we manage the panel?

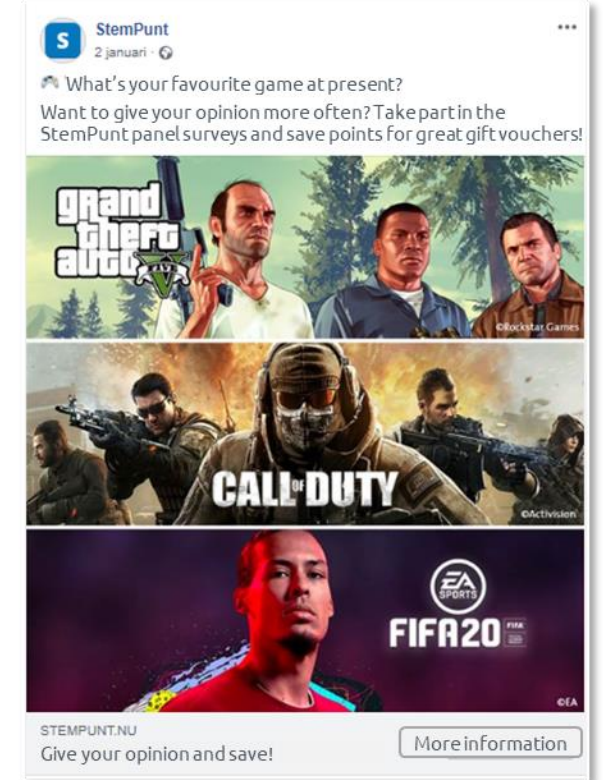

Motivation pays a lot of attention to ensure that the composition of the panel remains of the highest quality. Most of the panel members are recruited online. In order to avoid selection bias we make use of various different online recruitment sources.

We also recruit panel members 'offline', e.g. via postal or central location studies in which respondents are contacted either directly or indirectly via invitations, e.g. on beer mats in pubs.

Recruitment takes place via individual invitations and via spontaneous applications. For those target groups which are harder to reach for (online) research, we also make use of specialised panel suppliers.

Motivation investigates any bias resulting from self-selection and recruitment methods regularly and corrects the panel composition accordingly based on the results of these studies.

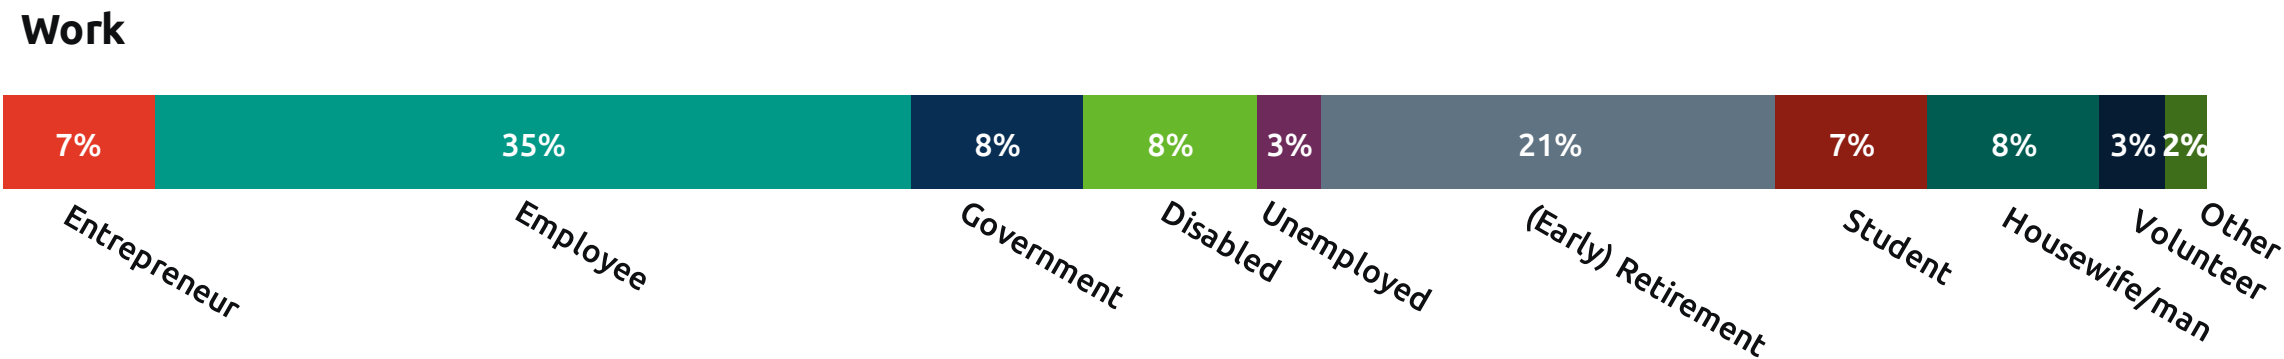

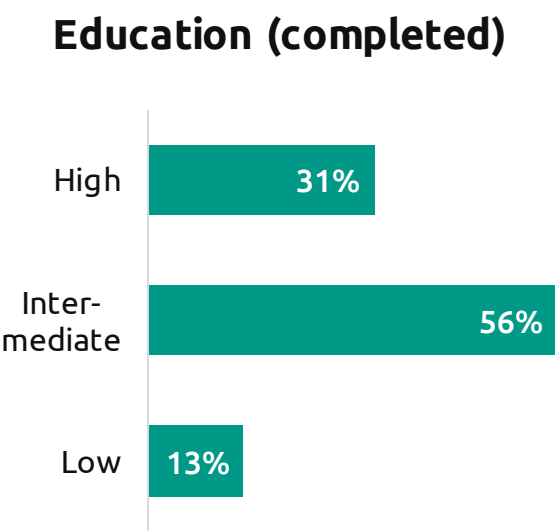

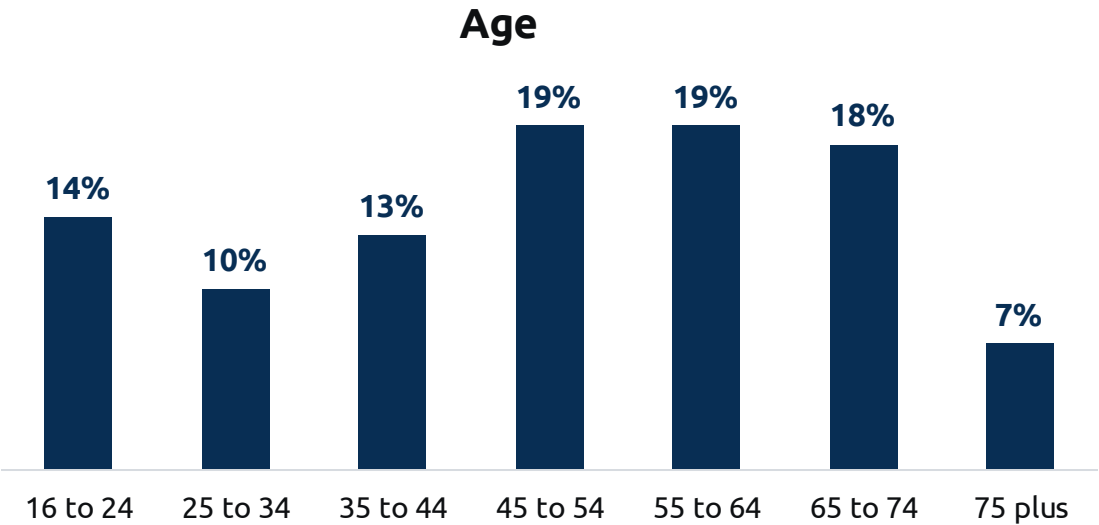

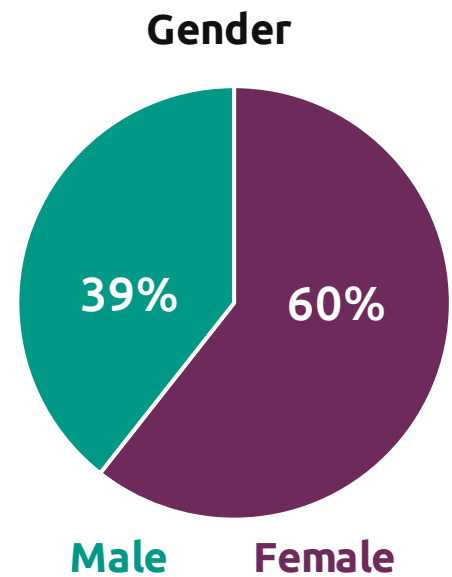

Contact with panel members takes place via e-mail. Panel members are able to complete questionnaires on their PC, tablet or smartphone.

Read further for information about the panel composition and an indication of the background characteristics and available additional enrichments.
